

Dear Valued Customer:

As you may or may not be aware, the recently enacted Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act (“CPSIA”) requires manufactures and importers to issue a GENERAL CONFORMITY CERTIFICATION certifying that the products they sell meet all applicable standards covered by Consumer Product Safety Act applicable to such products. Rock Me Apparel is committed to the utmost compliance with certification standards under the statute, which are applicable to its products.

Under the Flammability Standard for apparel set forth in 16 C.F.R. Part 1610, garments made of fabrics weighing more than 2.6 oz. Per yard. Are exempt from flammability testing. All blank t-shirts that Rock Me Apparel manufactures and sells are made of fabric weighing over 2.6 ounces per square yard.

Certification of the lead content of ink on any surface coating or phthalates content of any appliqué or decal is the responsibility of the embellisher.

If we manufacture merchandise bearing your trademark or brand, we will be required under the new rules to include your name and address as a “private labeler” on our certificate.

We encourage you to visit the CPSC’S website for additional information:

<http://www.cpsc.gov/ABOUT/Cpsia/cpsia.HTML>

Please feel free to contact us should you have any questions regarding the safety of our products. We will keep you posted of any changes in the CPSC’s application of the rules as they our brought to Rock Me Apparel attention.

Sincerely,

Rock Me Apparel